
Post-Audit Payroll Compliance Review

Organisation: Chase Risk & Compliance Demo Client

Prepared as at: 10 Apr 2026

This Post-Audit Review provides structured guidance on interpreting the CRC Executive Pack and supporting module reports following an audit, regulatory review, or external assurance activity.

It summarises how automated risk indicators may align with, extend, or contextualise audit findings. This document does not re-perform audit procedures, validate audit conclusions, or provide legal, accounting, or industrial relations advice.

1. Purpose of this Review

This Post-Audit Payroll Compliance Review is designed to help the organisation understand, triage and respond to payroll risk indicators after an audit, regulatory review or external assurance activity.

The review applies automated, data-driven checks to:

- provide an indicative view of residual risk
- identify areas where similar issues may arise beyond audited samples
- support internal decision-making on remediation and control improvements

This review does not replace audit conclusions, does not re-perform audit procedures, and does not provide legal or accounting advice. Its purpose is to support structured post-audit follow-up and ongoing risk management.

2. Relationship to Detailed Reviews

This Post-Audit Review summarises residual risk and remediation themes identified across the following CRC modules:

- Leave & Entitlement Leakage Review
- Long Service Leave (LSL) Exposure Review
- Termination Exposure Review
- Record-Keeping & Evidence Gaps (RKEG) Review

These detailed reports contain the underlying findings, rule logic, employee-level indicators, and recommended remediation actions.

Where commissioned separately, a Public Holiday Compliance Review may also be considered as part of broader payroll risk assessment. That review is delivered under a standalone tool and is not included in this CRC report pack unless expressly commissioned.

3. How to Use This Review

This Post-Audit Review should be read as a supporting tool alongside audit outcomes, not as a replacement for them.

Recommended approach:

1. Consider this review together with:
2. audit findings and recommendations
3. internal reports or management responses
4. Refer to the CRC Executive Pack for severity distributions and module-level findings.
5. Compare risk indicators with audit findings to:
6. identify alignment (where indicators match known issues)
7. surface adjacent or similar risks not sampled in detail
8. Prioritise follow-up where indicators suggest:
9. broader population impact
10. similar issues across multiple locations, cohorts or entitlement types
11. Re-run relevant modules after remediation to confirm reduction in residual risk.

4. Residual Risk Snapshot

This review draws together residual exposure signals identified across:

- Leave & Entitlement Leakage Review
(operational payroll accuracy and entitlement consistency)
- Long Service Leave (LSL) Exposure Review
(long-horizon entitlement and provision risk)
- Termination Exposure Review
(final pay process integrity and evidential defensibility)
- Record-Keeping & Evidence Gaps (RKEG) Review
(traceability, completeness and audit-readiness of payroll records)

Detailed severity distributions and module-level findings are presented in the CRC Executive Pack and supporting module reports. Post-audit, these should be used to understand where risk indicators remain and where further follow-up may be required.

If a Public Holiday Compliance Review was conducted separately, its findings should be considered alongside this report when assessing overall payroll risk posture.

5. Alignment with Audit Findings

Where audit findings are available, this review can assist by:

- highlighting areas where automated indicators align with audit issues
- identifying similar patterns in parts of the population not sampled
- providing additional context on the potential spread or persistence of issues

Potential use cases include:

- confirming whether known issues are isolated or widespread
- identifying additional employees, locations or periods that may warrant review
- supporting communication with stakeholders (Payroll, HR, Finance, Audit and Governance)

The presence of risk indicators does not by itself confirm non-compliance, but it may suggest areas where further analysis, sampling or remediation is appropriate.

This review is intended to complement, not challenge or override, formal audit conclusions.

6. Recommended Post-Audit Actions

A. Alignment with Audit Outcomes

- Map automated risk indicators against audit findings and agreed actions.
- Identify where indicators align with audit conclusions.

B. Residual Risk Assessment

- Assess whether similar issues may exist beyond audited samples.
- Prioritise review where patterns suggest broader population impact.

C. Ongoing Monitoring

- Re-run modules after remediation.
 - Use periodic re-runs to monitor residual and emerging risk.

7. Supporting Detailed Reports

This Post-Audit Review is supported by the following CRC module reports:

- Leave & Entitlement Leakage Review
`outputs/leave_report.html`
- Long Service Leave (LSL) Exposure Review
`outputs/lsl_report.html`
- Termination Exposure Review
`outputs/term_report.html`
- Record-Keeping & Evidence Gaps (RKEG) Review
`outputs/rkeg_report.html`

Where commissioned separately, a Public Holiday Compliance Review will be provided as a standalone artefact outside this CRC report pack.

These reports should be retained alongside audit documentation and management responses as part of the organisation's payroll governance records.

This Post-Audit Review should be used as a structured governance tool alongside audit documentation, management responses and remediation plans. The CRC Executive Pack remains the primary analytical artefact.

8. Scope, Assumptions & Limitations

This Post-Audit Review is subject to the following limitations:

- The review relies on the accuracy and completeness of the data provided.
- Automated checks are rule-based and may not capture all payroll risks.
- Award, enterprise agreement, and contract interpretation is not performed.
- This review does not provide legal, accounting, or industrial relations advice.
- Audit scope, sampling and methodology are determined by the relevant audit function and are not replicated here.

The review is intended to support informed post-audit follow-up and should be used alongside professional advice and formal audit outputs.
